

Charles Darwin

British geologist, naturalist.

He was born 12th February 1809 in Shrewsbury. He had 5 siblings and was interested in natural history and collecting in his youth. In 1825 he began to study at University in Edynburg with his brother, Erasmus, but it became boring to him. He was learning how to prepare an exhibit from John Edmonston. Later he was studying at Christ's college in Cambridge when he was mostly doing things that interested him and was collecting beetles but incoming exams forced him to study and he ended up with 10th best score in his year. Darwin was fascinated about Alexander's Humboldt book and this inspired him to go on a journey. He was invited to cruise "HMS Beagle" as a naturalist. This journey was organized to prepare a map of a South America coast. During the journey he was doing geological research, collected material to his natural's history research and prepared notes in his notebook.

Thanks to this journey, Karol Darwin was able to formulate Theory of evolution and natural selection, which was not received very well at beginning but later his work was appreciated. He was buried in Westminster Abbey with other great scientists of Great Britain.

Isaac Newton

british scientist, Physicist, mathematician,

He was born 4th January 1643 in Woolsthorpe by Colsterwort, a small hamlet at eastern England. In 1661 he started studying in Trinity college in Cambridge, 4 years later he received a scientific degree and discovered the theorem of binomial and began to work on calculus. He was also working on mechanics, gravitation and optics science. There is a rumor that says he invented the theory of gravity after an apple fell on his head when he was sitting under a tree but people say that he made up this story. We owe him discovering 3 basic laws of dynamics, the law of universal gravitation and he is considered to be the most important scientist in history. He died 31th March 1727 and was buried in Westminster Abbey, the same as Charles Darwin.

J.K Rowling

a few words about her:

British writer, philanthropist, screenwriter and film and television producer, formerly an English teacher. The greatest fame was brought by her series of fantasy novels Harry Potter, the sale of which has already exceeded 500 million copies.

What do people think about her?

On social media, she was called "feminazist" and "witch". Several authors have left the writing agency that represents Rowling. Some of the publishing house employees refused to work on her book. Even the stars of the Harry Potter films have criticized.

Criticism from fans:

Her entries sometimes evoke mixed emotions in the audience. This time, the British exaggerated, and laugh at opening problems person transseksual. The writer did not like the term "people with menstruation" used in the media. She shared her transphobic with fans in June, which is Equality Month.

I personally am on the side of J. K. Rowling with all my heart because he does not play with ideological political correctness but writes the truth.

In our opinion, J.K Rowling is an outstanding writer, she is confident and firm. Pays no attention to the opinion of others, she is focused on herself, has supporters and opponents. We think the Harry Potter series is magical.

John Ronald Reuel Tolkien

British writer and professor of classical philology and old English literature at the University of Oxford. He popularized fantasy literature. Tolkien knew over thirty languages! In a letter to his son in 1944 he wrote that he was also learning Polish, but that he could not use it fluently. His language skills helped him to create his own fictional languages, which were used by the characters of his novel.

A poet's Tolkien?

Tolkien is the creator of the history of Middle-earth, or „Lord of the Rings“, „Hobbit“ and „Silmarillion“. Tolkien started with poetry and never parted with it. His first surviving poems date back to 1911.

Tolkien's hymns

Of Love for Poetry can also be found in Tolkien's prose. Many of his books contain songs, hymns and poems sung or recited by the characters. Many of them resemble religious works with their construction and rhythm. Some of them were interpreted by Tolkien himself, the recordings of his singing can be listened to on YouTube.

Theories related

To the date of death of Tolkien

J. R. R. Tolkien died on September 2, 1973. Some say that Tolkien predicted the year of his death. Where did you get that idea? Look for the answer in the novel „Lord of the Rings”.

„Three Rings for the Elven kings under the open sky, Seven for the rulers of the dwarves in their stone palaces, Nine for the mortals, the men of death, the men of subordination, One for the Lord of Darkness on the black throne In the Land of Mordor, where there are shadows, One to rule all, One to find all, One to gather all, and in darkness to bind them together In the Land of Mordor, where there are shadows.

The numbers (3791) read from behind indicate the date of Tolkien’s death. How much truth is there in this? Tolkien Reading Day Since 2003 The Tolkien Society has been organising

Tolkien Reading Day

Every year on March 25th. On that day, group readings of his most important works are organized in many places around the world, screenings of „The Lord of the Rings” are held in cinemas, and in social media people boast about their libraries and unique objects related to the writer.
